Who is the Puzzle Master?

Your goal is to draw 12 puzzle pieces on your puzzle area. Gaps are allowed but will cost you points at the end of the game. A die roll determines which puzzle piece the players must draw next.

Your choices are easy at first but become harder with each piece you draw. You'll need a sharp eye and a cool head in order to draw all 12 pieces in this 5-minute portable puzzle game.

You roam across an island in search of fabulous treasures. When you reach a temple or a treasure site, a roll of the die will either reward or curse you! You win some, you lose some... By gathering equipment, you can improve your chances of collecting the shiny loot!

A shared die roll determines how far the players must move across the island. Plan your route carefully, because you have to reach the treasure spaces without getting stuck. When two halves make a whole!

As a new Roll & Write game SPLITTER promises a quite new challenge with simple rules and a dash of symmetry. And, as always, without waiting time. One player rolls the dice and everyone writes down the two numbers.

The only rule: The numbers rolled must be entered symmetrically to the center axis. Depending on how cleverly the numbers are placed, the two halves form a whole at the end. Ingenious!
